The Christmas event of the Year –

Directions were provided to the first marker, but due to some late comers, the group set out at 6.07pm, for what was planned as a 2.5km walk-in-the-Park.

All managed to make scenic lookout over Nambucca Heads.

All said they liked the view, and then the trail headed off for the short cut.

The pack headed into the bush and came to the cliff edge, but didn't go as far as the Abseiling rope, but turned back to head for Shelly Beach and the sedate On Home trail.

All arrived back in one piece, however with shoes full of sand.

Nibbles were ready for the pack, with the meal served quickly.

As the Hashers started into the warm Blue Berry Muffins, the Temporary R.A. call for a circle.

The Hare was toasted and a lovely down down of Honey Bourbon that was handed out.

As no S.O.W toilet seat was available – it wasn't awarded – besides Flaps wasn't in attendance.

We moved onto charges and suddenly everyone was charging themselves for failing to do the Abseiling – I think they wanted some of the On Down Liquor, so they could keep that taste in their mouths before it is ruined on New Year's Day.

At this point it was noted that the next run will be on New Year's Day and all were reminded to let Bronco and Slippery know before Thursday, if they were intending to attend (The F.O.K. will be there)

Since everyone had been charged and nobody had brought any awards the Temporary R.A. called circle Fucked, but for some reason everybody continue to be charging themselves and taking the Down Down again and again.

The coffee was served with more Blue Berry Muffins.

On On.
