Sticky's Run Number 618 of 31st Jan 2000

With Sticky setting the run, falseys we didn't need, but that's how we started, with an on-back up over the railway into Camperdown St, before the chalk ran out & we deduced we'd better go back down to the Shelters where the trail lead towards the Deep Sea Fishing Club. We fished & found some more chalk about the boat ramp, & then headed towards Traps but not for a surf, but a lesson in ankle twisting as the gibbers & Muttonbird hide-outs beckoned us on-up to the top of the old Quarry site. A welcome all-check was not to be found but a pack of weary runners were, pretending to be God struck with the views. Following the safety fence we wound our way down to the Breakwall where chalk directed the (i) gullible (ii) thrill seekers (iii) relatives of Peter Musgrave, out to the end of the Breakwall, only to find there was no boat waiting, but instead deceptive waves inviting the unwary to Davey Jones' locker. Unfortunately, all five of our party made it back, where they rejoined the other seven wiser runners. We then had to survive the wheel spinning antics of the younger set, showing how much rubber they could lose. The run took us along the Jetty Beach where the wise few absconded to the Bucket &/or a swim, & the others continued on & around the jetty area rehearsing for the City to Surf.

ON-ON!!
