Quickette's Run

A surprisingly warm evening saw 12 Runners, sorry, make that 5, plus 3 Walkers plus 4 super-healthy, ever so conscientious Keg Keepers come along for another Hash experience that television simply does not provide.

For example, after finding NO chalk at all, well that's what happens when all & sundry stand on an unmarked spot for 14.3 minutes, talking about the lucky travelling mob & anything else that allowed safe movement of feet, the Trail was eventually found, and a Hasher ( not a Bloke) reckoned there were at least two hills about the Jetty. Where else could one have such an incredible insight to the depth of geographic knowledge?

On & On the Trail found both the Hills & a coupla more, which included views over the lit Runway of JFI's Airport, Flaps' Marine Rescue view of the treetops, & from the elevated carpark, a decent view over the harbour where sometimes a yacht can be found.

To the Foreshores the athletic 5 continued. Nearing the Yachtie JFI & Handy were disappointed to find the Bar closed, furthermore they then discovered that 3 of their group had escaped their chin wagging, & had in fact found their way to the Keg without the aid of the "On Home" message displayed outside the Yachtie's Change Room, which is like a second home to some Hashers.

Quickette had planned for a colder night, so dished up a very warming Pumpkin Soup starter, followed by Lasagna &

Salads. The Chocolate Mint bikkies were forgotten. Tough. Quickie enjoyed 'em!!!!
